BERGDOLL THOUGHT NEAR BALTIMORE WITH MOTHER

At Least, So Report to Baltimore Police Has It—Search For Draft Evader Still On.

Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the draft-dodger who broke away from military guards at his home in Philadelphia last Friday, was reported to have been seen near Baltimore, accompanied by a woman between 50 and 60 years old who it is thought may be his mother.

Sheriff Robert S. Atkin of Hartford County, telegraphed Marshall Carter saying that Bergdoll and the woman had been seen. As a result all the policemen in the city are on the look out for the Hudson Supersix with the Pennsylvania license, number 55478, in which they are said to be traveling.

Automobile Commissioner Baughman's deputies are looking for them on the roads of the state and the county sheriffs have been told to look out for them. The Department of Justice agents and the agents of the Military Intelligence Bureau in Baltimore are watching for them.

It was said that Bergdoll's yacht, anchored off Atlantic City, had lately disappeared. Inquiry as to this yacht in Philadelphia first brought the reply that Bergdoll did not own a yacht. Later it was reported that Mrs. Bergdoll recently bought such a craft. It was then thought that the mother and son were on their way to Baltimore by automobile, having given instructions to have the yacht meet them there with the purpose of boarding the craft in Baltimore. The yacht is said to bear the name "Emma C."

Everyone engaged in the hunt for Bergdoll believes that his mother will do everything she can to aid him in retaining his liberty and evading the sentence of five years in Castle William on Governor's Island, New York, which was imposed on him last March for evading the draft during the war.

It was said in Philadelphia that neighbors had seen her in her home since the report from Baltimore. Former Magistrate J. E. Romig, a friend and adviser of the family said that she was still in the house.

Mrs. Bergdoll is 58 years old and answers the description of the woman alleged to have been seen near Baltimore with the fugitive.

Colonel Donaldson, of the Inspector General's department of the army, is in Philadelphia making an investigation of the circumstances surrounding Bergdoll's escape and holding a hearing of some of those concerned in it. It is understood that he will have Romig before him, so that the family's friend may tell what he knows.

Another son of Mrs. Bergdoll's, Erwin Bergdoll, has been a fugitive for over two years, he having escaped at the same time that Grover Cleveland Bergdoll did, after being summoned for service by the draft officials.

This evening the Senior class will present "Green Stockings," a farce comedy full of mirth and laughter from beginning to end.

The results of the inter-class athletic meet were unusually singular—Freshmen 44 points, Sophomores 44, Juniors 44, and Seniors 44. The highest individual scores were made by E. Leberknight 80, H. Allaman 24, Robert Madore 3 1/2. A remarkable feature of the meet was the part the girls took. The 80 yard dash, three legged race, tug of war, and basketball games were all keenly contested.

Class and school spirit ran high throughout the meet. The records made compare well with those of larger high schools. The time for the 100 yard dash (Allaman) was 13 1/2 seconds, 80 yard dash (Helen Cuppett) 10 seconds, 220 yard dash (Allaman) 28 1/2 seconds, high jump (Madore) 57 inches, running broad jump (Leberknight) 16 feet 3 1/2 inches, standing broad jump (Allaman) 8 feet 1 1/2 inches, discus throw (Leberknight) 93 feet 7 1/2 inches, and shot put 5 pounds, (Leberknight) 63 feet 3 1/2 inches.

FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS SHOW HEAVY EARNINGS

Earnings of the Federal Reserve system during the last fiscal year were estimated at $100,000,000 by Governor Harding, of the Federal Reserve Board, in a recent statement to a House committee. This is $10,000,000 greater than the earnings for the last year and represents a return of 110 per cent on the capital stock.

Commenting on the proposal of Republican leaders in Congress to investigate the Federal Reserve Board, Governor Harding said that an investigation into any of the Board's methods or activities was welcomed. He suggested that the controversy over the universal par clearance order of the Board be settled by amendments to the Federal Reserve act.

It also showed that Wood got enormous salaries besides commissions, all amounting to over a half million dollars in 1919. The annual profits, the prosecuting attorney says exceeded 300 to 400 per cent.

WOULD PREVENT USE OF BIG NITRATE PLANT

Senator Underwood Defeats Effort Of Private Interests to Control Legislation

A provision in the fortifications appropriation bill which would have stopped further development of the Government nitrogen plant at Muscle Shoals, and would have prevented production of nitrate which may be used in the manufacture of fertilizer for agricultural purposes was so vigorously attacked in the Senate that it was withdrawn by Senator Smoot of Utah.

Senator Underwood, Democratic leader, drew from Senator Smoot the admission that the Appropriations committee had not fully investigated the operation of the plant, and that the majority members of the Senate committee acted largely on the suggestion of the chairman of one of the House investigating committees who had objected to the Muscle Shoals project. Following Senator Underwood's explanation of the need of a nitrogen plant, and the effect its operation would have upon the country's agriculture, demand a roll call on the Smoot proposal. Later Senator Smoot withdrew the provision altogether.

Senator Underwood told the Senate that private interests did not want the big government plant operated because it would interfere with their control of the fertilizer supply of the country, and at the dictation of these interests, G. O. P. leaders in Congress would have stopped the operation of this great plant, intended not only to manufacture nitrate which will relieve the fertilizer shortage from which farmers are suffering, but also to guarantee the country an ample supply of nitrate for purposes of national defense.

It was one of the boldest attempts the interests have yet made to defeat legislation intended for the best interests of the whole country, and was defeated only by the Democratic leader's expose.

OUR COUNTY JAIL

Report of Penna. Prison Society

The jail was visited September, 1919.

The prison consists of a few steel cells opening on inside corridor, the whole surrounded by an outside corridor and walked in.

The toilet was sadly out of repair and the ventilation was unwholesome. Sufficient bedding except sheets.

There were five inmates, four of whom were serving time, being cared for at the expense of the county. No work to mention. One who was called a trusty was a sort of handy man about the place. It has happened that a man may be sentenced to remain in this "castle of indolence" for one year. They have bread and coffee morning and evening and on the day visited dined on bread and pepper not. Meat is served once a week. The county pays the sheriff 60c per diem for supplying provisions to the inmates. If the prisoners have money or friends and are dissatisfied with the menu, they may secure extra supplies, a privilege which is allowed in nearly all the county jails of the State. This practice is unsound in principle. Firstly, the provision furnished should be plain but sufficient. Secondly, those who have money have a decided advantage over the friendless and the impecunious.

The gross expense per diem for each prisoner in 1918 was $1.48.

The cost of maintaining the jail in 1918 $2,752.68.

Cost of maintaining and transporting prisoners elsewhere, $2,798.00.

The average daily population in 1918 was only two prisoners.

It costs $5,500 practically to keep two people in jail one year or $2,750 each. Very expensive!

The teachers reelected are as follows: Principal Prof. Shappell; assistants, Profs. Gehman and Keener; Grades: 1, Miss Lizzie Bain; 2, Miss Anna Knight; 3, Miss Mary Donahoe; 4, Miss Jessie Hoover; 5, Miss Ada Hunt; 6, Miss Ruth Ritchey; 7, Miss Margaret Lessig; 8, Miss Nell Miller. SENATE DELAYS ACTION ON APPOINTMENT

Important Nominations Sent In By President Held Up For Partisan Reasons

Important Presidential nominations which should have received the immediate attention of the Senate, branch of the government because of partisanship or inattention. The list contains some names that were sent in by the President two or more months ago. A partial list of the more important nominations to which the Senate has refused so far to give attention is as follows:

John Skelton Williams, for reappointment as Comptroller of the Currency, nominated December 20, 1919. Held up because of partisan opposition in the Banking and Currency Committee.

Albert S. Burleson, Rear Admiral William S. Benson and Walter S. Rogers, of Illinois to be representatives of the United States in the International Communications Conference, Nominated February 27, 1920. This international board is to study problems of wire communication for use in war and in peace.

John Van Schaick, Jr., to be Commissioner of the District of Columbia. Nominated December 12, 1919.

Martin J. Gillen, of Wisconsin, to be a member of the United States Shipping Board. Nominated April 13, 1920.

Henry Morgenthau, of New York, to be Ambassador to Mexico. Nominated March 25, 1920.

George W. Hunt, of Arizona, to be Minister to Siam. Nominated February 26, 1920.

Charles E. Bunnell, of Alaska, to be United States District Judge for the fourth division of Alaska. Nominated December 8, 1919.

Rinehart F. Roff, of Alaska, to be United States Attorney for the same district, nominated January 5, 1920.

Salvador Mestre, to be Attorney General for Porto Rico. Nominated March 23, 1920.

Delay Inexcusable.

More recently the President has sent in several nominations which should not have required more than a day or so to act on. For instance, the nomination of Alex C. King of Georgia, now Solicitor General of the United States, to be Circuit Judge of the Fifth Judicial Circuit. This nomination went in April 29, and although the nominee has been serving as Solicitor General of the United States and his qualifications are known to the Senate because of prior confirmation, the judgeship confirmation is still in committee.

Nominations of James Duncanson, of Massachusetts, and Henry James Ford, of Princeton, New Jersey, to be members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, were sent in May 4, but have not been considered, despite the urgency for a full commission. Mark W. Potter, of New York, was nominated for the remaining commission vacancy on May 6.

A typical method of partisan Senate procedure was shown recently in the case of Bainbridge Colby, now Secretary of State. The Colby nomination was held up from February 25 to March 22 while the Foreign Relations Committee investigated baseless rumors and charges whispered to a member of the Senate. When the charges were disproved and it was found the investigation was both an injustice to Mr. Colby and a waste of time, the committee reported it out and the Senate tried to make amends by quick action on the committee report.

FOREVER PLAYING POLITICS.

The G. O. P. majority in the Senate is forever playing politics. A study of the Senate records shows a study of the Senate records shows a very large number of appointments sent to the Senate by the President, on which confirmation has been withheld, generally without any excuse being offered. Some of the appointments are to foreign posts, one of them an Ambassador to Mexico. Some of them are to Federal judgeships. In the latter case, there does not seem any reason the Republicans in the Senate could have for withholding confirmation, save that filling these judgeships be deferred until a new administration comes into power, hoping that a Republican President will be elected and that Republicans may get the jobs.

Among the appointments of which action has been delayed is the naming of three American delegates to an international convention on communications, a very important convention to adopt an agreement for wire and other methods of communication, similar to the existing international postal agreement, to be held in Washington in August. The Republican leader, Senator Lodge, is said to have boldly written the State Department that the nomination of these delegates would not be approved by the Senate because one of them was objectionable to Senator Penrose, who is the Republican "boss".

The President has the appointive power, and the Senate is supposed to accept his selections, unless there be good reason for disapproval. There should be some other reason for failure to confirm than merely to "play politics" and display partisan prejudice.

BEDFORD COUNTY'S BIG SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

NEXT WEEK — June 1st and 2nd

It is expected that next week there will be in Bedford the largest and happiest gathering of Men and women, interested in Sunday School work, that has ever come together in Bedford County.

Bedford is the ideal center of the other points and with the convention at this season of the year, good roads will make it possible for those to come even from long distances where they must come and return the same day.

The County organization has planned and secured the strongest program ever brought before a county Sunday School Convention. It is unusual to have two state workers at Bedford county's happy privilege this year when not only will we have two state workers, but one of them, Mr. Landis, is given credit as being the best and most up-to-date, live wire Sunday School worker throughout the Nation. Mr. Landis, himself, will be in attendance all day Wednesday June 1st. Then comes Rev. Franz from Altoona and others with in and which.

Woolston of Philadelphia, with his illustrated lectures and as announced last week, three Sunday School workers from Monroe County including Mrs. Easton. Then with all local talent to be used only in the conferences and special music in charge of Prof. Koontz who has secured eight hundred copies of a special song book for the convention, surely Bedford County will have a big and inspiring Sunday School Convention in Bedford on June 1st and 2nd, and it is urged that EVERY school in the county be represented this year.

Much interest is being shown as to which schools will receive the two lots of books offered to the first and second schools covering certain point and it is urged that all reports in this contest be mailed at once to Mr. H. C. Heckerman, Bedford, Pa.

Much of time and effort have been placed in the planning of this convention by the county officers and it will be a big help to every school in the county sending interested delegates to this convention.

BIG LABOR MEETING

In response to an invitation from the members of organized labor of Bedford county, a number of farmers and working men assembled in the Court House at this place Saturday morning, the object of the meeting being to discuss the relationship of organized labor to the farmer. The principal speaker was Jas. H. Maurer of Reading, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, and member of the Legislature.

Addresses were also made by Charles Kutz, of Altoona, president of the Machinists Union; William Welsh, Labor candidate for Congress from this district; C. L. Brumbaugh, a well known granger of Blair County and Bedford county farmers; A. C. Richards, Jos. Donahoe, Geo. W. Koontz, J. A. S. Beagle, and others.

The miners of the county declared a holiday and a large number were present the morning trains from the Broad Top region bringing the largest delegation.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS REVEALED

The Senate Congressional Committee appointed to investigate the expenditure of money in campaigns is making some startling disclosures.

Governor Lowden, of Illinois, has spent up to date nearly a half million dollars to get the Republican nomination Governor Cox of Ohio, has spent $22,000 to get the Democratic nomination. Senator Sutherland of West Virginia has spent $3,500 for the Republican as well as Poindexter or so far, $75,000. Senator Johnson of California has spent nearly $7,000. Governor Lowden's delegates cost $1000 each in Missouri. Herbert Hoover's campaign has cost nearly $70,000 while Gov. Edward I. Edwards, of New Jersey has spent $12,900 to secure the Democratic nomination. It is shown that Edwards' campaign is not financed by the liquor people as was anticipated.

BAKE SALE

The Parent Teachers Association will hold a bake sale on Saturday, June 12. Everything baked will be for sale. At a meeting of the P. T. A. held Tuesday evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Pres. Mrs. Wm. Brice Jr.; Vice Pres. Miss Margaret Lessig; Secretary, Miss Jessie Hoover; Treas. Mrs. J. B. McLaughlin.

The Republican majority in Congress is bent on quitting its job in June, either by adjournment or a lengthy recess, regardless of what may or may not have been done or what important matters still press for attention. Political fences must be mended, and as the majority leaders know they are going to have a lot of explanations to make to the folks back home in an effort to excuse sins of omission as well as commission since they came into power last May they are going out to give attention to those fences, no matter what is left undone in Washington.

DISTINCTION

General Grant said he would have cherished the distinction of being a successful man of business higher than the renown of a great soldier.

Being successful in business may well be looked upon as a distinction. Assuredly it calls for a coralling of all one's powers and possibilities, and unrelenting effort.

We have figured largely in many business successes. We want to figure in many more.

SPECIAL INTERESTS BUSY

The hand of "special interests" appeared at the Capitol recently, when Senator Underwood, the Democratic leader, exposed their attempt to defeat the Government's plan to operate the great nitrate plant built up at Muscle Shoals, Ala., during the war. Capable of producing thousands of tons of nitrate annually, the operation of this plant would go far toward relieving the fertilizer shortage from which farmers are suffering and would also insure the country an ample supply of nitrate for munition purposes. In the past, the country has been dependent wholly on Chile for her nitrate supply.

Private interests, controlling the fertilizer industry, do not wish the nitrate plant operated and through an amendment to the fortifications bill, presented in the Senate by Republicans, would have prevented the Government's plan being operated. Senator Underwood's expose of the selfish purpose of these interests resulted in the withdrawal of the amendment.

HOW EUROPE CAN ESCAPE COLLAPSE

We Must Aid by Extending Credits, Says Davison.

GRAVE MENACE TO U. S. A.

European Ruin Would Involve America—Starvation and Disease Rampant.

Dr. M. J. In—Speaking before the General Convention of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Henry P. Davison, chairman of the Board of Governors of the League of Red Cross Societies, said:

As chairman of the Convention of Red Cross Societies composed of representatives of twenty-seven nations that met recently in Geneva, I am custodian of authoritative reports recording appalling conditions among millions of people living in eastern Europe.

One of the most terrible tragedies in the history of the human race is being enacted within the broad belt of territory lying between the Baltic and the Black and Adriatic Seas.

This area includes the new Baltic States—Poland, Czechoslovakia, the Ukraine, Austria, Hungary, Roumania, Montenegro, Albania and Serbia.

The reports which come to us make it clear that in these war-ravaged lands civilization has broken down. Disease, bereavement and suffering are present in practically every household, while food and clothing are insufficient to make life tolerable.

Men, women and children are dying by thousands, and over vast once-civilized areas there are to be found neither medicinal appliances nor medical skill sufficient to cope with the devastating plagues.

Wholesale starvation is threatened in Poland this summer unless she can procure food supplies in large quantities. There are now approximately 250,000 cases of typhus in Poland and in the area occupied by Polish troops.

Worst Typhus Epidemic in History. This is already one of the worst typhus epidemics in the world's history. In Galicia whole towns are crippled and business suspended. In some districts there is but one doctor to each 150,000 people.

In the Ukraine, we were told, typhus and influenza have affected most of the population.

A report from Vienna, dated February 12, said: "There are rations for three weeks. Death stalks through the streets of Vienna and takes unhindered toll."

Budapest, according to our information, is one vast city of misery and suffering. The number of deaths is double that of births. Of the 160,000 children in the schools, 100,000 are dependent on public charity. There are 150,000 workers idle.

Typhus and smallpox have invaded the four countries composing Czechoslovakia, and there is lack of medicines, soap and physicians.

In Serbia typhus has broken out again and there are but 200 physicians to minister to the needs of that entire country.

In Montenegro, where food is running short, there are but five physicians for a population of 450,000.

America Overflowing With Riches. Returning to the United States a few weeks ago with all these horrors ringing in my ears, I found myself once more in a land whose granaries were overflowing, where health and plenty abounded and where life and activity and eager enterprise were in the full flood.

I asked myself: "What if this plague and famine were here in the great territory between the Atlantic seaboard and the Mississippi valley, which roughly parallels the extent of these ravaged countries and that 65,000,000 of our own people condemned to idleness by lack of raw material and whose fields had been devastated by invasion and rapine were racked by starvation and pestilence and if we had lifted up our voices and invoked the attention of our brothers in happier Europe to our own deep miseries and our cries had fallen on deaf ears, would we not in our despair exclaim against their carelessness?"

Only Three Ways to Help Europe.

There are only three ways by which these stricken lands can secure supplies from the outside world. One is by payment, one by credit, and the third is by exchange of commodities. If these peoples tried to buy materials and supplies in America at the present market value of their currencies Austria would have to pay forty times the original cost. Germany thirteen times, Greece just double, Czechoslovakia fourteen times and Poland fifty times. These figures are official and are a true index of the economic plight of these countries.

It is clear, therefore, that they cannot give us gold for the things they must have, nor have they either products or securities to offer in return for credit. If only they could obtain raw material which these idle millions of theirs could convert into manufactured products they would have something to tender the world in return for its raw material, food and medicine. But if they have neither money nor credit how are they to take this first great step towards redemption?

One-half the world may not eat while the other half starves. How long do you believe the pangs of typhus that is taking a hideous death toll in Estonia and Poland and the Ukraine and eating along the fringes of Germany and Czechoslovakia will confine itself to these remote lands? Only last Saturday our health commissioner of New York, Dr. Copeland, called for the other side just to measure the danger and take precaution against such an invasion.

This is one menace at our threshold. The other, more threatening, more terrible, is the menace of the world's ill will. We can afford to die, but to be despised forever as a greedy and pharisaical nation is a fate that we must not incur.

The French government has many serious problems to solve, but the French peasant is working and the French artisan, while still sadly in need of raw materials, has not lost his habit of industry and thrift. The most encouraging fact about France today is that her people are alive to the seriousness of France's problem, and they are going forward bravely to solve that problem.

Italy, despite her great shortage of raw material, is looking forward and not backward. Italy can be relied upon to do her part!

England is meeting the problems of reconstruction just as those who knew her past should have expected her to meet them.

Plan to Aid Central Europe.

It is not for me perhaps to give in detail a formula for solution of the world's ills, but as I have been asked many times, "What would you do?" I am glad to give my own answer.

Accordingly, I would ask:

1. That Congress immediately pass a bill appropriating a sum not to exceed $500,000,000 for the use of Central and Eastern Europe.

2. That Congress call upon the President to appoint a nonpolitical commission of three Americans, distinguished for their character and executive ability and commanding the respect of the American people. Such a commission should include men of the type of General Pershing, Mr. Hoover or ex-Secretary Lane. I would invest that commission with complete power.

3. I would have the commission instructed to proceed at once, accompanied by proper personnel, to survey conditions in Central and Eastern Europe and then act for the restoration of those countries under such conditions and upon such terms as the commission itself may decide to be practicable and effective. Among the conditions should be provided that there should be no local interference with the free and untrammelled exercise by the commission of its own prerogative of allocating materials. Governmental politics should be eliminated; unreasonable and prejudicial barriers between the various countries should be removed, and such substantial guarantees as may be available should be exacted in order that the conditions imposed should be fulfilled.

4. As to financial terms, I should make them liberal. I would charge no interest for the first three years; for the next three years, 6 per cent, with provision that such interest might be funded if the economic conditions of the country were not approaching normal, or if its exchange conditions were so adverse as to make payment unduly burdensome, I should make the maturity of the obligation 15 years from its date, and I should have no doubt as to its final payment.

5. Immediately the plan was adopted I would have our government invite other governments in a position to assist, to participate in the undertaking.

6. To set forth completely my opinion, I should add that in the final instructions the American people, through their government, should say to the commission:

"We want you to go and do this job in such a manner as, after study, you think it should be done. This is no ordinary undertaking. The American people trust you to see that it is done right."

I would also say to the commission: "Use so much of this money as is needed." Personally, I am confident that with the assistance and co-operation which would come from other parts of the world the sum of $500,000,000 from the United States would be more than enough to start these countries on their way to self support and the restoration of normal conditions.

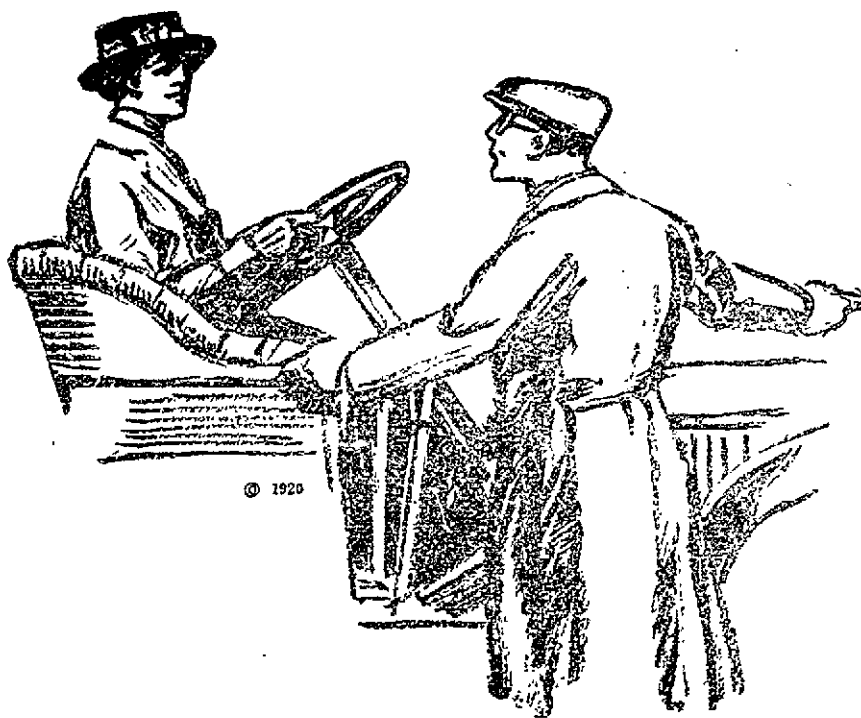

The whole plan, of course, involves many practical considerations, the most serious of which is that of obtaining the money, whether by issuing additional Liberty bonds, an increase in the floating debt or by taxation. But I think we could properly say to the treasury department:

"We know how serious your financial problems are; we know the difficulties which are immediately confronting you; we know the importance of deflation, and we know that the government must economize and that individuals must economize, but we also know that the American government advanced $10,000,000,000 to its allies to attain victory and peace. Certainly it is worth making the additional advance in order to realize the peace for which we have already struggled, for nothing is more certain than that until normal conditions are restored in Europe there can be no peace."

Above all things, I would say that whatever action is taken should be taken immediately. The crisis is so acute that the situation does not admit of delay, except with the possibility of consequences one hardly dares contemplate.

The situation that I have spread out here is far beyond the scope of individual charity. Only by the action of governments, our own and the others whose resources enable them to cooperate, can aid be given in sufficient volume. I am also confident that our action would be followed by the governments of Great Britain, of Holland, of the Scandinavian countries, of Spain and Japan, and that France and Belgium and Italy, notwithstanding all of their losses, would help to the best of their ability.

What a lot of argument there used to be about a woman driving an automobile

TODAY she can "make a train" or fix a tire as well as anybody.

As soon as a luxury becomes a necessity the point of view changes.

Two or three years ago you would have listened to more varying opinions about tires than you could shake a stick at. Mileages, construction, treads and whatnot.

It's different now. Tire users are working towards a unanimous feeling.

You express it one way—the man down the street another. But sifted down it amounts to this:

That the only way to settle your tire problem is to get a tire of known value and stick to it.

III

We recommend and sell U. S. Tires because their value is known.

There's no guess about it.

It was the U. S. quality policy which led to the perfection of the straight-side automobile tire, the pneumatic truck tire—two of the greatest additions to tire value that have ever been made.

As representatives of the oldest and largest rubber concern in the world, we are in a position to tell you something about tire values. Come in some day and talk to us.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel:

In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobby.

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco.

For front wheels—The U. S. Plain.

For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cords.

Mrs. Deacon Philander, who had been in bed a week suffering from a nervous breakdown due to overwork in cleaning her house, suddenly rose up in bed and screamed: "I must get up! Let me up!" She was restrained by force. She sobbed and said: "There is some dust on the mantle behind the clock and it has been there a week. I meant to clean it up, but forgot it until this moment." If the physicians can find an anti-housework toxin they offer hopes that Mrs. Philander will eventually recover some of her former health. Mr. Philander has made arrangements to have her guarded night and day to keep her from committing suicide by useless housework.

Real Jack of All Trades.

A quaint sign which used to be displayed outside the house of John Briggs, for nearly fifty years parish clerk at Thirley, Berks, has recently come to light. It runs as follows, practically without punctuation: "John Briggs, Parish Clerk. Draws all sorts of Teeth, in humor plays the violin shaves and cuts hair grinds razors scissors and Penknives. Takes any thing out of Eyes measures land and cures the itch out of hand and many other articles too tedious to mention N. B.—Likewise makes Woman's Shoe and Boots and High Shoes and Men's Shoes and Translator 1783."—London.

Opportunity Overlooked.

It is strange that the sublime and awe-inspiring beauty of the Rocky mountains, with their marvelous canyons, impetuous, dashing streams, shadowy pools and exquisite valleys, should not have inspired romantic names. The very atmosphere of the locality casts a spell over any man or woman in whose composition is woven the thinnest thread of poetic fancy, yet the names Mount St. Elias, Mount Shasta, Mount Hooker, Mount Brown, Pike's peak and so on are as practical as the lettering on grocers' boxes and suggest about as much romance as the word ashday. Even Zebulon M. Pike, the man for whom the great peak was named, would appear to have had nothing more to say about it than to express his opinion that no human being could ascend to its pinnacle.

What Is Truth?

A local minister delivered a discourse to his congregation on the old question, "What is truth?" notes the Los Angeles Times. Many learned discussions have been held on this theme in the past and men will probably continue to debate the subject for centuries to come. The fact, however, is that most people know more of the truth than they dare live, and their eternal conjectures and mouthings about abstract truth are usually indulged in for the purpose of attempting to avoid vital issues. "What is truth?" asked Pilate—and did not wait for an answer.

Comic Cookery.

To boil an egg, you first catch the egg. Never take any of the 13 eggs under the hen. Having caught the egg, prepare a kettle of water hot enough to shave with, but don't stop to shave. You continue to heat the water while peeling the egg. An egg should be peeled from left to right, always, as otherwise you peel against the grain. Catch the water at precisely 760 degrees Fahrenheit, which you can ascertain by inserting the index finger in the kettle. Then with harmer, nails, and tongue-and-groove boards construct a small chute, or slide, which you can attach to the ceiling, leaving the lower end to swing in the kettle. You then roll the peeled egg down the chute into the water. You may then throw away the chute. Allow the egg to boil until completely finished, soft, medium, or adamant, to suit the taste. Pour off the water, lift the egg gently but insistently, allow to cool, then serve.—Tit-Bits.

Warns of Mine Danger.

The United States bureau of mines has developed a novel means of giving an alarm of danger in all mines where compressed air is made use of throughout the workings. An ill-smelling substance is injected into the compressed air line, and in a few minutes the odor has been spread through all parts of the mine, and will be instantly recognized by the workmen.

Unique Mummy.

A mummy different from any other in the world is on exhibition in the Museum of Natural History in New York city. It is believed to be the only one of its kind ever found. It was discovered in the province of Antofagasta, Chile, and is the mummy of a Chilean Indian who was buried in a cave-in while engaged in mining copper, in prehistoric times. The body, being protected from the air, became mummified through the action of the copper salts, added by the extremely dry climate of the region. With the mummy were found the stone wedges and stone hammers with hafted wooden handles used in mining, and baskets and a bag of llama skin for holding the mined ore.

"Give" and "Get"

The two little words "give" and "get" sum up the differing creeds of earth and the ambitions of mankind. Those who are eager to bestow, to enrich the world around them, to bless, to help, to uplift, constitute the one class. The other crowd grasps everything for self, only its own.

Maybe Right.

A lion tamer who bought liquor from a bootlegger stated afterward that whisky was a necessity for one of his calling. At that there may be something to his argument. We can't imagine a stone-sober man deliberately walking into a cage of lions.

Famous Mexican Canal.

Mexico's most popular artificial waterway of travel is La Viga (the canal), which leads from Lake Xochimilco to Mexico City. No one knows just how old the canal is, as it antedates Mexican history. It is supposed, however, that it was cut by the Toltecs, a race prior to the Aztecs. When Cortez conquered Mexico, he found that the canal had been long in use. All the craft of La Viga, passenger and otherwise, are flat-bottomed, and are propelled by poles. The boatmen have the current with them in getting passengers and freight to the city, as the water of the canal comes from Lake Xochimilco, which is six feet higher than Mexico City.

Totems.

Among the Indians of North America, a natural object, usually an animal, was used as the token, or emblem of a clan or family, and a representation of which served as a guarantee for each member of the group. There are or less similar superstitions and usage among other uncivilized peoples. The representation of the totem form by an individual was a sacred and religious in some way upon the skin itself, and upon his different garments and ornaments. The totem was also, in a sense, an idol or the embodied soul of a deity or demon, or at least had a religious significance.

Flamingo Nearing Extinction.

The flamingo's happy hunting ground used to be throughout Florida and many lovely members of its family could be met with in the other hot countries. Very few of them are left now, however, anywhere in this country and many bird lovers predict that in a few years more they will have been killed off until they will be extinct.

ROUND KNOB

The farmers are quite a bit late with their planting on account of the wet weather.

Emma Winter who has been employed at Wade H. Figard's is home for a few days vacation.

Those who visited at the home of Wade H. Figard on Sunday were: Rev. William Space of Coaldale, John Mosley, wife and son Clarence, Reuben Thomas and brother Austin and Benjamin Black and wife of Broad Top City.

Charley Wright who has been home from the hospital for a month, or so is reported no better and expects to go back to the hospital for continued treatment. The probability is that he may have to have his leg taken off, but we hope not.

Charley Childers has taken a wife and is going to housekeeping on the old John Thomas property.

Charley Mort, wife and daughter, Catherine, visited at the home of Raymond Figard on Sunday last.

Rev. Space preached quite an interesting sermon at Kearney on last Sunday.

CHAIRMAN HAYS' KEYNOTE

To the Editor of the World:

May I suggest that the Republican party can spare itself the trouble and expense of a National Convention this year? There is no need of a "keynote" speech by Mr. Lodge or anybody else. The keynote has been struck, and by whom more appropriately than that statesman of unselfish ideals and lofty vision, Mr. Will Hays, the Chairman of the National Committee?

We are more interested in the stomachs of our people than the hearts of the world.

Here is a gem of purest ray serene. Here, indeed is the beautiful adventure, the very spirit of noblesse oblige, a platform and a keynote speech in one—in perfect consonance with Mr. Lodge's utterances. Send it ringing round the world, the message of the Republican party to all the suffering people thereof! Let them know just what kind of a party it is that is trying to "Americanize" the treaty and kill the League of Nations. Compare it with the messages of Woodrow Wilson and judge it out of its own mouth.

It is not often a party is so fortunate as to have a genius capable of crystallizing its whole attitude in one luminous epigram so early in the campaign. Print it every day in large type at the top of your paper till the people have learned it by heart. It is, indeed, the keynote, and should also be the final note in the death-knell of a party that dares so to affront a world. Kultur at the apex of its madness never dreamed of so insulting mankind. This naive self-revelation of the inner workings of his mind places us all under an obligation to Mr. Hays.

It is completely in accord with Mr. Lodge's "They will take us at our own terms," and Richard Croker's famous "I work for my own pocket all the time."

It sounds so much like Abraham Lincoln and reminds one of that line in a deluded soldier's poem "To you with falling hands we throw the torch—be yours to bear it high."

In the language of the gutter with which he would seem to have so much in common, Mr. Hays has indeed "said a mouthful."

FRANK D. SWANEY,
Brooklyn.

MRS. MARY CLINGERMAN

Mrs. Mary Clingerman died of Apoplexy on Friday May 21, 1920, at the home of Mrs. Savannah Smith. Deceased was born June 15th 1837, a daughter of the late Lewis and Savannah Miller. About sixty years ago she was united in marriage to Joseph Clingerman, deceased. She is survived by the following children: Simon of Inglesmith; Peter of Artemas Route 1; Margan of Artemas Route 1 and Banner of West Austintown, Ohio; also a brother, Mr. Bartley Miller of Clearville Route 2 and a sister, Mrs. Margaret May of Cumberland, Md. The funeral services were held Sunday May 23rd at 2 P. M. at Fairview, Rev. A. R. Garland officiating. Interment was made in Fairview cemetery.

Mrs. Clingerman had been a member of the Fairview Christian church since early in life.

Some of the Republicans who do not belong in the inner circle have a suspicion that "Boss" Penrose is using his colleague, Senator Knox, as a "stalking horse," and that his real "favorite" won't be entered in the Chicago derby until the bell taps.

Will Hays' "We care more for the stomachs of the people of America than for the heart of the world," slogan, is met by the Democrats with the retort, "We care both for the stomachs and hearts of mankind."

All roads will lead to the Prosperity convention which the Democrats will hold at San Francisco next month.
